

THE DIALOGUE

The Kentucky Hunger Dialogue Newsletter

158 Years of Giving

Addressing On-Campus Food Insecurity During the Holidays

INNOVATIVE WAYS CAMPUSES ARE HELPING

Nationally, one in three college students experiences food insecurity. For many of these students, they can find refuge at the dining hall with meal plans or at campus food pantries, which provides much-needed resources throughout the school year. During campus closures, such as those around the holidays, many reliable safe havens like these shut down with the rest of campus. In some cases, students who remain on campus are left with no on-campus food solutions, rendering them with sudden and abrupt food insecurity. Read more...

LOCAL RESTAURANT CHANGES THE WAY WE DINE OUT

"Locals Food Hub & Pizza Pub is a locally sourced grocery store and wood-fired pizza taproom, developed to increase community access to locally produced, nutrient-rich, delicious food, to provide local farmers with a consistent local market, and to create a gathering space to come together around local food." Read more...

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Share food and hope with Kentuckians with God's Pantry.

Hunger doesn't take a holiday. Help feed food insecure college students by donating canned and dry goods, staples, personal hygiene products, and warm hats, gloves, socks and other winter wear items to your local college or university food pantry.